Important points for reporting violations

- • You must give your name, in principle. As long as the report is not found to be made with malicious intent, no person reporting a violation will be treated unfavorably on account of their having made a report.
- • Please provide reasonable grounds for submitting a report or evidence of the alleged impropriety.
- • Depending on the nature of the report, the matter may be handed over to the department with responsibility for administrative matters concerning the compliance violation in question or they may be informed of the necessary information.
- • Those reporting violations are requested to cooperate with the investigation in good faith.
- • If the report is found to have been made with malicious intent, a punishment may be imposed or other necessary steps taken.
